Wine of the Month

2008 Colorado Sangiovese (Talbot Vineyard) $22

A perfect summer red! As the weather warms up, be sure to cool this lively Sangiovese down to cellar temperature (55-60) degrees. If you're outdoors, yes, throw it in the ice bucket for a couple of minutes. This wine has a brilliant garnet color that trumps the past vintages by far. The aromas of vanilla and cream soda invite you to taste the fresh Bing cherry flavors that mingle with the youthful, spicy tannins. We haven't seen this kind of color or flavor intensity in our Colorado Sangiovese for several years. This 2008 will shine as one of the best vintages of Colorado Sangiovese for years to come.

Enjoy it now while it's young and vibrant, but be sure to cellar some to enjoy as it matures and mellows.
